Test Assignment

Create an application that would allow us to scrape information from Yahoo! Finance for a list of tickers on a given date. The information should include the full company name, year founded, number of employees and headquarters city and state. It should also include the date and time, previous close price, open price and market cap for the date provided. This information needs to be stored in a database.